

809 Eagles Lane
Lexington, KY 40509
October 19, 2004

Federal Communications Commission
445 12th Street SW
Washington, DC 20554

Dear FCC,

I would like to express my views concerning MB Docket No. 04-233. It has come to my attention that you are considering a ruling on the expansion of Low Power FM broadcast. I object to this expansion as it would deprive me and my community of the broadcast by K-LOVE radio. This radio station provides a highly valuable family friendly service based on values I share. It provides an up lifting and hopeful message in a time of uncertainty. I would encourage you to tune into your local K-LOVE transmission and see for your self's. Further more as an educator, it is clearly evident in our nation's schools that the proliferation of broadcast airing music and commentary, which is contrary to the values on which the United States of America was founded, has had a harmful effect on the youth of our nation. One of the biggest battles for today's teachers is to overcome the lack of self discipline and anti-authority behavior so prevalent in our students. I believe that K-LOVE is having a positive effect on the youth of our community and their parents by giving them hope that life together is better than life focused on self. This is most important in a time when 50% of all marriages fail, often leaving children to raise themselves. If the K-LOVE broadcast is hindered by an LPFM broadcaster, it will have a negative effect on the community and leave us with little or no options for this type of programming.

Sincerely,
Joe H. Morgan